

The Global Dimension

By 2020 the Government would like all schools to be models of good global citizenship, enriching their educational mission with activities that improve the lives of people living in other parts of the world.

- Schools can respond by developing a responsible, international outlook among young people, based upon an appreciation of their interdependence with other societies and the environment. Young people should leave school understanding the impacts of their personal values, choices and behaviour.

- Schools can use the curriculum to cultivate the knowledge, values and skills needed to act as globally aware citizens, and reinforce this through positive activities such as school partnerships and exchanges.

Dear Graham Mabelson,

PARTNERSHIP SCHOOL

Thanking you in advance for establishing a link with our school. We've been looking forward to linking with some schools from your country. Now, we are so pleased that you have shown your interest to link with us.

We are one of the best schools in the city. Our students enjoy dancing and in performing drama and music. We are also interested in games such as table tennis, football and netball. Let me point out also that we are interested in both spoken and written English since our school is an English speaking school.

We are closing for the summer on 17th November, 2006 and we shall start school again on 8th January, 2007. In early November we have another programme. We are starting our summer term. Students from different schools and our own students come to learn. So we are busy throughout the year.

Bishop Mackenzie is our neighbour here in Lilongwe.

Lastly I would be very pleased if we set up exchange visits as you have already said because through such visits our schools could learn sorts of things.

Since we don't have our own email, please, for the time being, use this email we have sent our letter.

Yours sincerely
